It's all fresh. It's one of the few fry around that opens for lunch, the group's leader, Grand Knight Rich Cook, said. They go from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. It wasn't too busy around 1pm today, but Cook said by 4am they should be lined the door. His main concern is the weather. If it's bad people don't want to wait in line on the street. When people come to fish to fry they want to eat right now, he said. Go to the Arnold Patch Facebook page for more pictures. Workers (all volunteers) keep all four fryers in the kitchen busy cooking cod, jack salmon and soma; and heating trays to keep food hot for a while between cooking and eating. Dinner is $8.00, and include your choice of fish, on both sides, a drink and dessert. During Lent, all proceeds went to charity, and Cook said it remains local. Protected workshops and food pantries are among those that benefit. Now there are a lot of people who need help, he said. Some (roasted) more, but we do a lot of good here. Knights of Columbus fish fry in business every Friday during lent, and the first Friday of the month all year round. Have a fry too every Friday at Lent, from 5 to 8 p.m. Go to Patch to find other fry in the St. Louis area.
